

Hoffman Cafe

743 SOUTH SPRING ST
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

September 9, 1930.

Dr. Eng. O. Scheid;
1802 East 90th street
Cleveland, Ohio.

My dear Dr. Scheid;

Very happy to receive your letter dated Aug. 30th and we are All looking forward to see here in our great State of California.

My daughter of whom no doubt you have heard your aunt speak of, has been send to New York last week to direct a picture and will be in New York about three months. She is the only child left to me as her brother, who was a Civil Engeneer died about ten years ago. Please do not miss her when you go to New York again, as she knows all about you and would be very happy to meet you.

I am enclosing herewith a notice which appeared in this morning paper, so you know where she is.

Hoping my old friend Herman Wagner has been of some assistance to you, and if there is anything I can do for you, kindly let me know. In the meantime my wife is looking to your visit as I am with geatest pleasure and do not forget when you write home give them All our kindest regard.

With best wishes, I am
as ever yours

Louis Wagner.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1930

M-G-M TO STAR JO

Dorothy Arzner Leaves for New York to Direct Picture for Paramount

By Louella O. Parsons

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

(Copyright, 1930, by Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service, Inc.)

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer would buy Howard's play and is to be a

*
*
Snapshots of Hollywood, collected at random: Jack Pickford and his pretty bride dining at the Montmartre. Victor McLaglen, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes, Johnny Walker and Chandler Sprague also at this cafe, which is taking a new lease on life. Dorothy Arzner on her way to New York to direct a picture for Paramount. Clara Bow bidding Rex Bell a tender farewell before he left for Lake Tahoe, where he will play in "Lightnin'." Lilian Tashman displaying a diamond and jade bracelet given her by Edmund Lowe for their fifth wedding anniversary. Hedda Hopper, looking like a fashion plate, dancing at the Coconut Grove. Baroness Fern Andra at another table; also Jack Oakie dancing at the same place. That's all today. See you tomorrow!